

Living

Having a home

Ani went from living on the streets to having a home when she became a Keys tenant. Now, she's really living her life!

For Ani it's about being able to do things most people take for granted. She likes being able to sit down to watch TV whenever she feels like it. She likes that family and friends have somewhere to visit her and she's found her life is filling up. "With no home there are many things you can't do, can't access or can't enrol in...but now I am working part time. I work five days a week."

"This has made a massive difference for me. Huge."

It wasn't that Ani hadn't tried looking for a place on her own, but it wasn't until she met her housing co-ordinator things fell into place and she found a home that was just right for her.

For Ani it's about being able to do things most people take for granted.
